“Acute Endovascular Therapies in Large Vessel Stroke”

Program Description:
This CME activity consists of an educational component (slides, audio lecture) in an electronic format, followed by an online post-test. Estimated time to complete this activity, including review of materials, is 45 minutes.

General Information:
Requirements for Successful Completion:
- This CME activity consists of an educational component (slides, audio lecture in an electronic format, which is followed by an online post-test).
- There is no fee to participate in this CME activity or to receive CME credit.
- Certificates are awarded upon successful completion (80% proficiency) of the post-test.
- In order to receive credit, participants must view the presentation in its entirety.

Target Audience:
Primary Care Physicians, Specialty Physicians, Neurologists, Allied Health Professionals, Nurses, EMS Professionals

Learning Objectives:
1. Review existing literature regarding endovascular management of acute ischemic stroke
2. Elaborate on the evolution and technical aspects of multiple endovascular device
3. Summarize patient selection/decision making process for endovascular therapies in acute stroke
4. Brief update on the ongoing/upcoming research trials
Continuing Medical Education Credit:

Faculty Disclosure:
Samuel K. Tsappidi, MD has disclosed that he has no relevant financial relationships. No one else in a position to control content has any financial relationships to disclose.

Accreditation:
The University of Florida College of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Credit:
The University of Florida College of Medicine designates this enduring material for a maximum of .75 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

System Requirements:
In order to view this presentation, your computer must have a media player such as Windows Media Player, QuickTime, or Real One.

CME Contact:
For any questions regarding this Internet CME activity, please contact the Office of Continuing Medical Education at 352-733-0064.

Copyright:
The University of Florida College of Medicine has received permission to use this copyrighted material within a CME activity on the Internet.

Policy on Privacy and Confidentiality:
The procedures to maintain your privacy are described in the University of Florida privacy statement: http://privacy.ufl.edu/privacystatement.html